Top 100 Ways to Earn Money by Completing Online Tasks

Looking for ways to earn money online? Whether you are a college student, a stay-at-home parent, an unemployed job seeker, a working professional, or someone looking for extra income, there are plenty of online opportunities worth exploring.

You can earn money by completing online tasks, participating in research studies, testing websites, providing freelance services, working remotely, teaching online, selling digital products, or helping businesses with everyday tasks. Some opportunities require little more than a smartphone and an internet connection, while others need a computer, specialised software, professional skills, or previous experience.

One advantage of working online is that you can find opportunities beyond your immediate location. Many businesses hire remote workers and independent contractors across the United States, while freelance marketplaces connect American workers with clients worldwide.

This guide covers 100 ways to earn money online, including websites to investigate, what each opportunity involves, practical steps to get started, and estimated earning potential in US dollars.

The earning figures are illustrative estimates rather than guaranteed wages or verified rates offered by individual platforms. Actual results depend on your skills, location, eligibility, available assignments, client demand, and time invested. Unless otherwise stated, monthly figures represent potential gross earnings before taxes, platform fees, and business expenses.

Quick Answer: How Can You Earn Money by Completing Online Tasks?

Some practical ways to earn money online in the United States include:

- Completing paid research studies through Prolific and CloudResearch Connect.
- Testing websites and applications through UserTesting.
- Finding small freelance projects through Fiverr and Upwork.
- Completing eligible microtasks and data annotation projects.
- Transcribing audio, writing captions, and proofreading documents.

- Providing virtual assistance and customer support.
- Selling used items, digital downloads, and original creative work.
- Applying for remote jobs and part-time online positions.
- Offering website development, graphic design, video editing, or digital marketing services.

If you want to earn money relatively quickly, completing an available paid study, selling an item you already own, or finding a small freelance assignment may be more practical than building a new website or YouTube channel. However, no platform guarantees that you will receive tasks or earn a particular amount.

100 Ways to Earn Money Online

Online Tasks, Surveys, and Research Studies

1. Complete Paid Online Surveys

Companies and research organisations use surveys to learn about consumer preferences, shopping habits, and opinions about products and services. Participants answer questions in exchange for eligible rewards.

Websites to investigate:

- YouGov
- Survey Junkie
- Swagbucks
- LifePoints

Potential earnings: Approximately $5–$100 per month for occasional participants, although results vary considerably.

How to start: Register with legitimate panels, complete your profile honestly, and answer surveys that match your background. Check whether rewards are paid in cash, PayPal transfers, or gift cards.

Surveys are generally better suited to supplementary income than replacing a full-time salary.

2. Participate in Academic Research Studies

Universities and research organisations sometimes pay participants to complete questionnaires, decision-making experiments, interviews, and behavioural studies.

Websites to investigate:

- Prolific
- CloudResearch Connect
- ResearchMatch
- Respondent

Potential earnings: Approximately $10–$200 per month when suitable paid studies are available.

How to start: Complete your participant profile, verify your identity when required, and review each study's compensation and eligibility requirements. Some research registries are designed to connect volunteers with studies and do not guarantee payment.

Prolific supports eligible participants living in the United States, although registration and access to studies may be subject to verification and a waitlist. Official participant information.

3. Test Websites for Money

Website testing involves using a website and reporting problems with navigation, design, content, or checkout processes. Some assignments ask you to record your screen and explain your experience aloud.

Websites to investigate:

- UserTesting
- Userlytics
- Trymata
- Userfeel

Potential earnings: Approximately $20–$300 per month when suitable tests are available.

How to start: Register, complete the practice or qualification process, and check the requirements for your computer, microphone, browser, and payment account.

Assignments are not guaranteed. UserTesting states that payments are sent to a verified PayPal account, generally 14 days after a completed test. Payment information.

4. Test Mobile Applications

App testing involves checking how applications work on different devices. You might report crashes, confusing screens, login problems, or other usability issues.

Websites to investigate:

- uTest
- Test IO
- Testbirds
- UserTesting

Potential earnings: Approximately $20–$250 per month for occasional testers.

How to start: List the devices you own, learn basic bug-reporting techniques, and apply for projects that match your equipment and experience.

Some projects require specific operating systems, device models, or technical knowledge.

5. Complete Website Usability Studies

Companies sometimes recruit people to evaluate prototypes, shopping journeys, registration processes, and other digital experiences.

Websites to investigate:

- User Interviews
- Respondent
- dscout
- UserTesting

Potential earnings: Approximately $20–$300 per month, depending on the number and type of studies you qualify for.

How to start: Build a complete participant profile and respond to screening questionnaires honestly. Some studies pay substantially more than ordinary surveys because they require a live interview or specialised experience.

6. Participate in Product Research

Product researchers want feedback on packaging, new product concepts, shopping experiences, and potential improvements. Studies may involve online questionnaires, interviews, or product trials.

Websites to investigate:

- User Interviews
- Respondent
- Influenster
- Product Report Card

Potential earnings: Approximately $10–$200 per month in cash-equivalent rewards or other incentives, depending on the programme.

How to start: Look for research opportunities that explicitly describe their compensation. Some product programmes provide free products instead of cash, so check the reward before accepting.

7. Complete Microtasks Online

Microtasks are small digital assignments that can include categorising information, checking search results, identifying objects in images, or verifying data.

Websites to investigate:

- Clickworker
- Amazon Mechanical Turk
- Toloka
- Microworkers

Potential earnings: Approximately $20–$300 per month for part-time participation, depending on available assignments and task rates.

How to start: Review the registration requirements, complete qualification assessments, and calculate the effective hourly rate before spending substantial time on low-paying assignments.

8. Complete AI Data Annotation Tasks

AI data annotation involves labelling text, images, audio, and other information to help train or evaluate machine learning systems.

Websites to investigate:

- Outlier
- TELUS Digital
- OneForma
- Toloka

Potential earnings: Approximately $50–$1,000 per month when suitable projects are available and you qualify.

How to start: Check current project openings, complete assessments honestly, and follow the instructions for each assignment. Some projects require subject expertise, strong writing skills, or technical knowledge.

Project availability and compensation can change significantly, so do not treat advertised maximum rates as typical earnings.

9. Evaluate AI-Generated Responses

Some companies hire evaluators to assess whether AI-generated answers are accurate, relevant, safe, and clearly written.

Websites to investigate:

- Outlier
- DataAnnotation
- TELUS Digital
- OneForma

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$1,500 per month for eligible workers with suitable assignments.

How to start: Demonstrate strong reading, writing, reasoning, and fact-checking skills. Review project requirements carefully because some roles require specialised knowledge or timed assessments.

There may be waiting periods between assignments, and passing an assessment does not guarantee ongoing work.

10. Perform Search Engine Evaluation

Search engine evaluators assess whether search results are relevant, useful, and appropriate for a particular query. Other assignments may involve evaluating advertisements or online content.

Websites to investigate:

- TELUS Digital Careers

- RWS Careers
- OneForma
- Welocalize Careers

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$800 per month for suitable part-time contracts.

How to start: Search for US-based evaluator positions and review the required language, location, working hours, and assessment process. Some positions require a detailed qualification exam.

11. Transcribe Audio Recordings

Transcriptionists convert spoken audio into written text. Assignments may involve interviews, meetings, lectures, podcasts, or research recordings.

Websites to investigate:

- Rev
- TranscribeMe
- GoTranscript
- Scribie

Potential earnings: Approximately $50–$600 per month part-time.

How to start: Practise accurate typing, punctuation, and listening. Complete the platform's qualification process and check whether payment is calculated per audio minute or another unit.

Remember that one hour of recorded audio can take considerably longer than one hour to transcribe.

12. Create Captions and Subtitles

Captioning specialists prepare timed text for videos. Subtitling may also involve translating spoken dialogue into another language.

Websites to investigate:

- Rev
- GoTranscript
- Upwork
- Fiverr

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$800 per month for part-time work.

How to start: Prepare a sample caption file, practise synchronising text with speech, and offer services to businesses, educators, and video creators.

13. Participate in Online Focus Groups

Focus groups collect detailed opinions about products, advertisements, services, and consumer behaviour. Sessions may take place through video calls or online discussion platforms.

Websites to investigate:

- User Interviews
- Respondent
- FocusGroup.com
- Fieldwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $25–$300 per month from occasional studies, although individual sessions may pay more or less.

How to start: Complete your profile, answer screening questions accurately, and check the duration and payment terms before scheduling a session.

14. Complete Online Market Research Tasks

Market research assignments may involve comparing products, researching competitors, collecting public information, or organising customer feedback.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Freelancer
- Fiverr
- Respondent

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$800 per month part-time.

How to start: Prepare a sample research report with reliable sources, organised findings, and practical conclusions. Businesses may pay more for research that requires industry knowledge rather than simple data collection.

15. Complete Online Mystery Shopping Assignments

Some mystery shopping programmes ask participants to evaluate digital shopping experiences, customer service, websites, or specified purchasing processes.

Websites to investigate:

- Market Force
- BestMark
- IntelliShop

Potential earnings: Approximately $20–$200 per month when assignments are available.

How to start: Check the assignment instructions, reimbursement conditions, and payment schedule. Many mystery shopping jobs involve physical locations, so select remote assignments if you specifically want online work.

Avoid any assignment that asks you to deposit a cheque and send money elsewhere.

Freelancing and Online Services

16. Freelance Writing

Freelance writers create blog posts, website articles, product descriptions, newsletters, and other written content for businesses.

Websites to get started:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Freelancer
- ProBlogger

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$2,000 per month part-time.

How to start: Choose a subject you understand, create three original writing samples, and explain the type of content you provide. A specialised portfolio can help you compete for better projects.

17. Freelance Copywriting

Copywriters write advertisements, sales pages, promotional emails, landing pages, and product descriptions intended to encourage customers to take action.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Contra
- PeoplePerHour

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$3,000 per month part-time.

How to start: Create sample advertisements and landing pages for fictional businesses. Explain the audience, purpose, and deliverables of each sample.

18. Proofreading and Editing

Proofreaders correct spelling, grammar, punctuation, and formatting. Editors may also improve clarity, structure, and readability.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Reedsy
- Freelancer

Potential earnings: Approximately $150–$1,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Create before-and-after samples and specify whether you offer proofreading, copyediting, or substantive editing.

19. Translation Services

If you are fluent in multiple languages, you can translate websites, documents, marketing content, subtitles, and other material.

Websites to investigate:

- ProZ
- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Smartcat

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$2,000 per month part-time.

How to start: Choose language combinations you can translate confidently, prepare samples, and apply for projects that match your expertise.

20. Virtual Assistant Services

Virtual assistants help businesses manage emails, schedule appointments, organise documents, update spreadsheets, and perform administrative tasks.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Belay
- Time Etc

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,000 per month part-time.

How to start: Offer a defined service, such as inbox management, appointment scheduling, or five hours of administrative assistance each week.

21. Data Entry

Data entry workers transfer information into spreadsheets, databases, forms, and business systems.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Freelancer
- PeoplePerHour
- Indeed

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$800 per month part-time.

How to start: Improve your typing accuracy and spreadsheet skills, then apply for clearly described assignments. Be particularly cautious of supposed data entry jobs requiring registration fees.

22. Online Research Assistance

Researchers and business assistants collect information, compare products, identify potential suppliers, and prepare organised reports.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Freelancer
- Contra

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$1,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Prepare a sample report with source links, comparison criteria, and clear conclusions. Accuracy and organisation are important selling points.

23. Resume and Cover Letter Writing

Job seekers often need help presenting their skills, achievements, and experience effectively. You can provide resume formatting, editing, and cover letter services.

Websites to investigate:

- Fiverr
- Upwork
- LinkedIn
- Freelancer

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$1,500 per month.

How to start: Create sample resumes for different industries and offer separate packages for formatting, editing, and cover letters. Never invent qualifications or employment history for customers.

24. Customer Support Services

Remote customer support representatives answer questions, troubleshoot basic problems, and help customers understand products and services.

Websites to find opportunities:

- Indeed
- LinkedIn Jobs
- Remote.co
- We Work Remotely

Potential earnings: Approximately $1,800–$4,000 per month for suitable full-time positions.

How to start: Prepare a resume highlighting communication and problem-solving skills. Verify that the employer accepts applicants in your state and review the actual employment terms.

25. Live Chat and Email Support

Businesses hire support representatives to respond to customer messages, process enquiries, document problems, and explain company policies.

Websites to investigate:

- Indeed
- LinkedIn Jobs
- Remote.co
- FlexJobs

Potential earnings: Approximately $1,800–$3,500 per month for suitable full-time employment.

How to start: Practise writing clear, professional responses and look for roles that match your availability and typing skills.

26. Online Appointment Setting

Appointment setters contact prospective customers and schedule meetings for sales teams, consultants, and service providers.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Indeed
- LinkedIn Jobs

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,000 per month part-time, depending on compensation and hours.

How to start: Learn basic outreach techniques and ask whether the role pays hourly, per appointment, or through commissions. Avoid unclear compensation arrangements.

27. Remote Sales Assistance

Remote sales representatives identify prospective customers, explain products, qualify leads, and help businesses generate revenue.

Websites to investigate:

- LinkedIn Jobs
- Indeed
- Wellfound
- Upwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $2,000–$6,000 per month for suitable roles, including possible commissions.

How to start: Develop communication and sales skills. Review targets, base compensation, commission rules, and employment classification before accepting an offer.

28. Bookkeeping Services

Bookkeepers organise invoices, reconcile transactions, maintain records, and prepare financial reports for businesses.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Belay
- Indeed
- LinkedIn Jobs

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,500 per month part-time, depending on qualifications and client workload.

How to start: Learn bookkeeping fundamentals and accounting software such as QuickBooks or Xero. Offer only services you are qualified to provide.

29. Social Media Management

Social media managers schedule posts, plan content, respond to comments, and help businesses maintain an active online presence.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Contra
- PeoplePerHour

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Prepare a sample content calendar and offer a monthly package with defined deliverables, posting frequency, and reporting.

30. Website Development

Website developers create and maintain websites for businesses, professionals, and online stores.

Websites to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Freelancer
- Contra

Potential earnings: Approximately $500–$4,000 per month part-time for developers with suitable skills and paying clients.

How to start: Learn HTML, CSS, JavaScript, or a website-building platform. Create functional portfolio projects that demonstrate what you can deliver.

Design, Video, and Creative Tasks

31. Graphic Design

Graphic designers create social media graphics, promotional images, brochures, advertisements, and other visual materials.

Websites to investigate:

- Fiverr
- Upwork
- 99designs
- DesignCrowd

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Build a portfolio with several original designs and offer packages based on the number and type of deliverables.

32. Logo Design

Logo designers create visual identities for businesses, creators, and organisations. Additional services may include brand colours, typography, and social media assets.

Websites to investigate:

- 99designs
- Fiverr
- Upwork

- DesignCrowd

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$1,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Create original concepts for fictional businesses and define revision limits and file formats in each package.

33. YouTube Thumbnail Design

YouTube creators need thumbnails that communicate their video topics quickly and remain readable on small screens.

Websites to investigate:

- Fiverr
- Upwork
- Freelancer
- Contra

Potential earnings: Approximately $200–$1,500 per month part-time.

How to start: Create examples for gaming, education, entertainment, and technology channels. Contact creators who publish videos regularly and offer a small initial package.

- Mercari
- Poshmark

Potential earnings: Approximately $50–$1,000 per month when you have suitable items to sell. This may be occasional rather than recurring income.

How to start: Photograph items clearly, describe their condition honestly, compare prices, and use secure payment and shipping arrangements.

62. Resell Products Online

Reselling involves purchasing products at suitable prices and selling them for a markup. Possible categories include accessories, household goods, clothing, and collectibles.

Websites to investigate:

- eBay
- Facebook Marketplace
- Mercari
- Shopify

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$2,000 per month in potential gross profit for a small operation with suitable sales and controlled costs.

How to start: Research demand and calculate purchase costs, shipping, returns, and marketplace fees before buying inventory.

63. Sell Handmade Products

Handmade jewellery, personalised gifts, artwork, crafts, and home décor can be sold to customers online.

Websites to investigate:

- Etsy
- Shopify
- eBay
- Facebook Marketplace

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$1,500 per month in potential profit, depending on order volume, material costs, and pricing.

How to start: Begin with a small collection, photograph products carefully, and calculate materials and labour before setting prices.

64. Start a Print-on-Demand Business

Print-on-demand services produce items such as T-shirts, mugs, tote bags, and posters after a customer places an order.

Websites to investigate:

- Printful
- Printify
- Redbubble
- Spring

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$1,000 per month in potential profit after building a catalogue and finding customers.

How to start: Create original designs for a defined audience. Check production costs, shipping, platform fees, and intellectual property rules.

65. Sell E-books

E-books can cover practical skills, hobbies, education, business processes, or other topics you understand well.

Websites to investigate:

- Amazon Kindle Direct Publishing
- Gumroad
- Payhip
- Draft2Digital

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$1,500 or more per month for a successful catalogue. Many new authors earn little initially.

How to start: Research demand, create an original and useful book, edit it carefully, and check the platform's publishing and payment requirements.

66. Sell Canva Templates

Canva templates can help businesses and creators produce social media posts, presentations, media kits, and marketing materials.

Websites to investigate:

- Canva
- Etsy
- Gumroad
- Payhip

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$1,000 per month after building a catalogue and attracting customers.

How to start: Create original templates for a clear audience, provide previews, and follow the relevant licensing and marketplace requirements.

67. Sell Digital Art and Illustrations

Artists can sell downloadable illustrations, commissioned drawings, icons, and licensed visual assets.

Websites to investigate:

- Etsy
- Creative Market
- Adobe Stock
- Gumroad

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$2,000 per month for artists with paying customers, although income may be irregular.

How to start: Publish a portfolio, define licensing terms, and make sure you own or have permission to use every asset you sell.

68. Start an Online Store

An online store allows you to sell physical or digital products through your own website.

Websites to investigate:

- Shopify
- WooCommerce
- Wix
- Squarespace

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$3,000 or more per month in potential operating profit for a successful store. Revenue and profit are different.

How to start: Select a focused product category, research customer demand, and calculate product costs, fulfilment, advertising, refunds, and payment processing fees.

69. Start a Dropshipping Business

Dropshipping allows you to sell products while a supplier handles fulfilment and shipping. You remain responsible for customer service, product quality, and returns.

Websites to investigate:

- Shopify
- WooCommerce
- DSers
- CJdropshipping

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$2,000 per month in potential profit for a store with paying customers. Losses are possible.

How to start: Verify suppliers, delivery times, product quality, and your total costs before investing in advertising.

70. Sell Products Through Online Marketplaces

Marketplaces can help sellers reach customers who are already searching for particular products.

Websites to investigate:

- Amazon Seller Central
- eBay
- Etsy
- Walmart Marketplace

Potential earnings: Approximately $100–$2,000 per month in potential profit for a small operation, depending on sales and expenses.

How to start: Check seller eligibility, marketplace fees, fulfilment requirements, and product restrictions before listing items.

Websites and tools to investigate:

- Upwork
- Fiverr
- Toptal
- GitHub

Potential earnings: Approximately $800–$5,000 or more per month for experienced developers with suitable projects.

How to start: Choose a development environment and create a small functional application that demonstrates your abilities.

84. Software Testing

Software testers check applications and websites for defects, usability problems, and unexpected behaviour.

Websites to investigate:

- uTest
- Test IO
- Testbirds
- Upwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $50–$800 per month from part-time testing projects.

How to start: Learn to reproduce bugs, document test steps, and submit clear reports. Some opportunities require technical experience or particular devices.

85. Data Analysis

Data analysts organise information, identify patterns, create visualisations, and prepare reports for business decisions.

Websites and tools to investigate:

- Upwork
- Freelancer
- Kaggle
- Microsoft Learn

Potential earnings: Approximately $500–$3,000 per month part-time or through suitable contract work.

How to start: Learn spreadsheets, SQL, and a visualisation tool. Build portfolio projects using public or synthetic data.

86. AI Workflow Consulting

AI consultants help businesses use suitable AI tools for drafting, summarising, organising information, and improving internal workflows.

Websites and tools to investigate:

- OpenAI
- Zapier
- Make
- Upwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $400–$3,000 per month for consultants who solve real business problems.

How to start: Identify a repetitive business process, build a demonstration workflow, and explain its benefits and limitations. Protect confidential data and verify AI-generated results.

87. Sell Website Themes and Templates

Designers and developers can sell website themes, landing page layouts, and reusable components.

Websites to investigate:

Websites to investigate:

- CodeCanyon
- WordPress.org Plugins
- Chrome Web Store

- Gumroad

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$3,000 or more per month for useful products with paying customers.

How to start: Identify a specific problem, build a small solution, document installation requirements, and plan for maintenance and support.

89. Build a Micro-SaaS Product

A micro-SaaS product provides a focused software service, often through subscriptions. Examples include scheduling tools, calculators, reporting systems, and workflow automation.

Websites and tools to investigate:

- Bubble
- Softr
- Stripe
- Product Hunt

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$5,000 or more per month in potential recurring revenue once customers adopt the product. Profit may be considerably lower.

How to start: Validate the problem with prospective customers before building the product. Launch a small version and improve it based on feedback.

90. Sell Original Digital Assets

Digital assets include icons, illustrations, audio effects, design elements, and other downloadable resources.

Websites to investigate:

- Creative Market
- Adobe Stock
- Gumroad
- Envato Market

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$1,500 or more per month once your catalogue attracts buyers.

How to start: Create original assets for a specific audience and follow marketplace licensing requirements. Sales may be irregular, especially for new sellers.

Other Ways to Earn Money Online

91. Sell Domain Names You Own

Domain investors sometimes buy and sell names that businesses may find useful. However, many domains never sell, and renewal costs can accumulate.

Websites to investigate:

- Afternic
- Sedo
- Namecheap
- GoDaddy Auctions

Potential earnings: $0 in many months, with possible proceeds ranging from small amounts to much larger sums when a sale occurs.

How to start: Research comparable sales, calculate renewal costs, and avoid domains that infringe trademarks. Do not treat domain trading as predictable income.

92. Build and Sell Small Websites

You can build a useful website around a particular subject or problem, develop its content and functionality, and potentially sell it as an online business.

Websites to investigate:

- Flippa
- Empire Flippers
- Acquire.com
- WordPress.org

Potential earnings: There is no dependable monthly amount. A website may earn nothing during development and may eventually generate revenue or sell for a one-time payment.

How to start: Choose a topic with genuine demand, build useful content or functionality, and maintain accurate records of traffic, revenue, and expenses.

93. Sell Digital Audio and Music

Musicians and audio producers can license original music, sound effects, jingles, and audio loops.

Websites to investigate:

- AudioJungle
- Pond5
- Bandcamp
- Gumroad

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$1,000 per month after developing a catalogue and attracting customers.

How to start: Create original recordings, organise your files professionally, and check licensing and distribution terms before uploading.

94. Offer Remote Recruitment Assistance

Recruitment assistants help companies organise applications, schedule interviews, communicate with candidates, and maintain hiring records.

Websites to investigate:

- LinkedIn Jobs
- Indeed
- Upwork
- Wellfound

Potential earnings: Approximately $300–$2,000 per month part-time, depending on the role and workload.

How to start: Highlight administration, communication, and scheduling skills. Apply for legitimate roles with clearly described responsibilities and compensation.

95. Offer Remote Project Coordination

Project coordinators help teams organise meetings, track deadlines, update task lists, and communicate progress.

Websites to investigate:

- LinkedIn Jobs
- Indeed
- Remote.co
- Upwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $500–$2,500 per month part-time or through suitable contracts.

How to start: Learn tools such as Trello, Asana, or Monday.com and prepare a sample project plan showing how you organise tasks and deadlines.

96. Provide Remote Technical Support

Technical support workers help users troubleshoot software, devices, accounts, and technical problems.

Websites to investigate:

- Indeed
- LinkedIn Jobs
- Remote.co
- We Work Remotely

Potential earnings: Approximately $2,000–$5,000 per month for suitable full-time roles.

How to start: Learn common troubleshooting procedures and prepare examples showing how you solve problems methodically.

97. Provide Cloud and IT Administration

Cloud and IT administrators manage accounts, configure systems, monitor infrastructure, and troubleshoot technical issues.

Websites to investigate:

- Microsoft Learn
- AWS Skill Builder
- Google Cloud Skills Boost
- LinkedIn Jobs

Potential earnings: Approximately $2,000–$5,000 per month for suitable remote or contract work.

How to start: Choose an IT or cloud environment, complete practical exercises, and document your projects. These roles generally require technical knowledge and may require certifications.

98. Provide Cybersecurity Services

Cybersecurity professionals help organisations assess risks, improve security controls, and protect systems and information.

Websites to investigate:

- TryHackMe
- Hack The Box
- LinkedIn Jobs
- Upwork

Potential earnings: Approximately $2,000–$6,000 or more per month for suitably skilled professionals with appropriate roles or contracts.

How to start: Build practical knowledge through authorised labs and relevant training. Never test a system without explicit permission.

99. Create a Paid Newsletter

A paid newsletter provides useful research, industry updates, tutorials, or specialist information to subscribers.

Websites to investigate:

- Substack
- beehiiv
- Kit
- Ghost

Potential earnings: Approximately $0–$2,000 or more per month after developing a paying audience.

How to start: Publish useful free content, establish a clear subject, and introduce paid subscriptions when you can provide additional value. Most new newsletters should not expect immediate revenue.

100. Build an Online Community or Membership Business

You can create a paid community around a professional skill, hobby, educational goal, or specialised interest. Members may pay for exclusive resources, discussions, workshops, or ongoing support.

Websites to investigate:

- Patreon
- Mighty Networks
- Circle
- Discord

Potential earnings: Approximately $50–$2,000 or more per month once a paying membership base develops.

How to start: Build a community around a genuine shared interest, offer consistent value, and introduce paid features only when members have a clear reason to subscribe.

These websites are starting points, not guarantees of available work. Check registration requirements, US eligibility, fees, payout methods, withdrawal limits, and platform policies before committing significant time or money.

How Much Can You Realistically Earn Online?

Your earnings depend on the type of work, your experience, the available assignments, and whether you can find paying customers.

How to Earn $100 a Month

A $100 monthly target may be achievable through a combination of occasional tasks or a small service business, although it is not guaranteed.

Possible approaches include:

- Completing suitable paid research studies.
- Selling a few unused household items.

- Taking on a small proofreading or design project.
- Testing websites when assignments are available.
- Tutoring one or two students regularly.

For example, two $50 freelance assignments would produce $100 in gross revenue before fees and expenses. The challenge is finding customers or assignments consistently.

How to Make $500 a Month

A $500 monthly target may be more practical if you can offer a service that customers need repeatedly.

Possible approaches include:

- Four clients paying $125 each for an agreed service.
- Editing videos for a small number of recurring customers.
- Providing several hours of virtual assistance each week.
- Tutoring students regularly.
- Combining paid studies with freelance work.

These are planning examples, not predictions of actual earnings.

How to Make $1,000 a Month

To work towards $1,000 per month, consider developing a specialised skill, securing recurring clients, or finding suitable part-time employment.

Possible approaches include:

- Managing social media for several small businesses.
- Providing website maintenance or design services.
- Editing videos for creators with regular publishing schedules.
- Offering bookkeeping or marketing assistance if qualified.
- Combining a part-time remote position with freelance assignments.

Remember that gross revenue is not the same as take-home income. Account for expenses, platform charges, refunds, equipment, and applicable taxes.

How to Receive Online Payments?

Before registering with an earning website, check how it pays participants and whether the withdrawal process works for you.

Depending on the platform and arrangement, payment options may include:

- Direct bank deposit.
- PayPal.
- Payoneer.

- Supported payment processors.
- Marketplace payouts.
- Gift cards or other non-cash rewards.

Useful services to investigate include PayPal, Payoneer, and your bank's payment services.

Not every platform supports every payment method. Check processing times, minimum withdrawal amounts, currency conversion charges, verification requirements, and account restrictions before signing up.

For freelance work, agree on the scope, deadline, payment milestones, and revisions in writing. For larger projects, milestone-based payments can help reduce the risk of unpaid work.

Do You Need to Pay Taxes on Online Income?

Online income may have federal, state, and local tax implications. This can include earnings from freelance work, online surveys, remote contracts, digital products, affiliate marketing, and other gig activities.

The Internal Revenue Service explains that gig economy income generally must be reported, including certain part-time and temporary earnings that are not reported on an information form. Self-employed individuals may also need to consider estimated tax payments. See the IRS Gig Economy Tax Center.

Keep records of payments, invoices, platform fees, and eligible business expenses. The tax treatment depends on your circumstances, income, and worker classification.

If you are unsure which federal or state rules apply, consult a qualified tax professional.

How to Avoid Online Earning Scams

Not every website advertising easy online income is legitimate. Before accepting work or providing personal information, look for warning signs such as:

- An upfront fee to unlock jobs or withdraw supposed earnings.
- Guaranteed profits with little or no effort.
- Requests for your banking password or one-time verification code.
- Instructions to receive and transfer money for strangers.
- No verifiable employer, job description, or payment terms.
- Pressure to purchase expensive training or inventory immediately.
- Promises of unusually high rewards for simple tasks followed by a demand for a deposit.
- Fake checks or requests to send part of a payment back to the sender.

Research employers independently, verify website addresses, read the terms, and avoid sharing sensitive information unnecessarily.

Legitimate employers and platforms can still have strict qualification requirements, limited assignments, or low-paying tasks. Evaluate the actual opportunity rather than relying on promotional earnings claims.

A Simple 30-Day Plan to Start Earning Online

Days 1–7: Choose Your Method

Select one method that matches your existing skills, equipment, and available time.

If you are a beginner, consider starting with paid research studies, a simple freelance service, or selling items you already own. If you have technical or creative skills, identify the service you can provide most confidently.

Check eligibility and payment rules before investing time.

Days 8–14: Create Your Profile or Offer

Prepare a professional profile, portfolio, or product listing.

If you are offering a service, create sample work and explain exactly what customers receive. If you are completing online tasks, finish the required verification and qualification steps.

Set realistic prices and account for fees and expenses.

Days 15–21: Apply or Find Customers

Apply for relevant assignments, submit tailored proposals, contact suitable businesses, or publish your first product listings.

Keep a record of applications, responses, completed work, and payments. Avoid sending identical messages to every potential customer.

Days 22–30: Review and Improve

Evaluate how much time you spent, how many opportunities you pursued, and what responses you received.

Calculate your effective hourly earnings where possible. Improve your profile, pricing, samples, or application strategy based on the results.

You may not earn money during your first month. The purpose of this plan is to develop a repeatable process and identify opportunities that suit your circumstances.

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the easiest way to earn money online in the United States?

Selling unused items, participating in eligible paid research studies, or offering a service you can already perform may be relatively straightforward starting points. The easiest option depends on your skills, available time, and access to suitable opportunities.

Which websites pay people to complete online tasks?

You can investigate Prolific, CloudResearch Connect, UserTesting, Clickworker, and other task platforms. Each has different eligibility rules, assignment types, and payment arrangements.

Can I earn money online without investment?

Yes. Some opportunities can be started with a computer or smartphone, an internet connection, and free tools you already have. Examples include selling unused items, applying for remote jobs, and offering writing or administrative services.

However, internet access, equipment, transportation, and other expenses may still apply.

Can I earn $100 a day online?

Some experienced freelancers, remote workers, tutors, and business owners may earn $100 or more on a working day. However, it is not a guaranteed daily income, particularly for beginners or people relying on surveys and microtasks.

Can I make money online using only my phone?

Some activities, such as surveys, selected research studies, selling items, and creating short videos, can be done on a smartphone. Many professional services and remote jobs are easier with a computer.

Always check the device requirements before registering.

Which online jobs pay the most?

Specialised work in software development, cybersecurity, cloud administration, data analysis, consulting, and digital marketing can offer stronger earning potential than basic microtasks. These roles usually require relevant skills and experience.

Are paid survey websites worth it?

Surveys may provide supplementary income if a platform accepts your profile and has enough suitable assignments. However, screening, limited availability, and low reward rates can reduce your effective hourly earnings.

Can college students earn money online?

Yes. Students can investigate tutoring, freelance writing, graphic design, video editing, research studies, and suitable part-time work. Check age requirements and balance the workload with your studies.

Can I earn money online without experience?

Yes, some opportunities have relatively low entry barriers, including selling used items and applying for selected microtasks. Freelance and remote roles may require sample work, assessments, or relevant experience.

Building a marketable skill can improve your options over time.

How long does it take to receive payment?

Payment timing varies by platform. Some services pay after a task is approved, while others use scheduled payouts or minimum withdrawal thresholds. Freelance projects may use milestones or agreed payment dates.

Read the payment terms before beginning work.

Are online microtasks a reliable full-time income?

Not necessarily. Microtasks can be useful for supplementary income, but task availability, compensation, and eligibility can change. Anyone seeking a more predictable income may want to investigate employment or recurring freelance contracts.

Do I need to report online earnings to the IRS?

Online earnings may need to be reported even when they come from part-time work or are not reported on an information form. Tax requirements depend on your circumstances. Consult the IRS Gig Economy Tax Center for official guidance.

Final Thoughts

There are many ways to earn money online in the United States in 2026, from completing research studies and testing websites to providing freelance services, working remotely, selling digital products, and building an online business.

The best starting point is to choose one method, investigate the relevant websites, confirm your eligibility, and develop a realistic plan. You do not need to register with every platform or attempt all 100 methods at once.

If you need supplementary income, consider paid research studies, occasional online tasks, selling unused items, or offering a service. If you want to build a more sustainable income stream, developing specialised skills and finding recurring clients may be worth exploring.

Content creation, digital products, affiliate marketing, and software businesses can offer additional opportunities, but they require patience, ongoing work, and a genuine understanding of customer demand.

Start with one opportunity, verify the website, understand the payment terms, and focus on providing something people are willing to pay for.

Editorial note: All earning ranges in this guide are illustrative estimates, not independently verified platform rates or promises of income. Actual earnings depend on qualifications, location, available work, customer demand, and expenses. Platform availability, payment terms, fees, and eligibility requirements may change. Verify current information directly with each provider before committing time or money.
